The 2008-2009 Capital University Women’s Basketball Media Guide was written by Scott Miles and Bill Thomas with assistance from Denise Russell, Ryan Richards and Dixie Jeffers. Photos by Karen Carter, Bruce Hefflin Photography and Terry Gilliam. Design and layout by Doug Brehm, Capital University.

Note to the Media
The Capital University Sports Information office is here to serve you. Contact the office for working credentials and press box space at The Capital Center, as well as press releases, statistics, feature stories, photos and other information on the Crusaders. Pre-game material, halftime statistics and NCAA final statistics and a play-by-play is provided at every game.

Media Guidelines
All interview and photo requests must be coordinated through the Sports Information Office. Access to practice must be set up in advance and postgame interviews with players and coaches will be granted after a 10-minute cool down period. Opposing team interviews will be granted with that coach’s approval. One phone line will be provided to visiting team radio and phone lines and data ports will be made available to all working media members in attendance.

For More Information
Information on the Crusaders is available on the Internet at www.CapitalCrusaders.net. The Ohio Athletic Conference also does a weekly release on Tuesdays in the winter. That release along with other information on the OAC is available on the Internet at www.oac.org.

a place to live

Enjoy the advantages of a safe residential campus in the city of Bexley with all the educational, social and cultural activities of Columbus, Ohio’s largest city, just minutes away.

Many Capital students further develop their self-confidence and leadership skills through involvement in campus activities and volunteer service. You will enjoy a sense of community with students and faculty members who explore similar interests.

Capital University will be your home away from home. You will be a part of the “Cap Family” – a family that provides the support you need to develop academically, socially and personally.

a place to learn

As a student at Capital, you will have the opportunity to work with professors who will challenge you and personally help you succeed.

Small class sizes allow for extensive classroom discussions, where you will learn from faculty members who are gifted professionals in their field.

You’ll benefit from a quality liberal arts education coupled with the opportunity for professional training through internships.

a place to grow

By drawing on its Lutheran heritage, Capital provides an environment that emphasizes strong values and ethics and prepares graduates for lives of giving back to the communities in which they live and work.

A diverse campus population fosters the ability to communicate and live in a global society.

The communication and problem-solving skills you develop at Capital will prepare you for your first job out of college and a lifetime of career changes and advancements.
Entering its eighth year, The Capital Center is a 126,000-square-foot recreational and athletic complex that includes a 2,100-seat arena, Bernlohr Stadium, a 51,000-square-foot multipurpose forum, a 5,000-square-foot fitness center, and a multitude of offices, classrooms and hospitality areas.

The 2,100-seat arena is home to the women’s volleyball and men’s and women’s basketball programs. The arena has a pair of hospitality suites, a pair of broadcast booths and a camera booth with approximately 175 chair-back stadium seats and the remaining bleacher seating.

Football and men’s and women’s soccer play on a state-of-the-art artificial surface called AstroPlay in Bernlohr Stadium. Within a brick grandstand are two observation decks, a hospitality suite and press box. The stadium includes a three-lane track around the field perimeter for fitness and recreation endeavors.

Functionality and usability are the key in the multipurpose forum, as the infield of the NCAA regulation indoor track has four courts with lines for basketball, volleyball and tennis. Suspended from the ceiling is netting that can split the area into a multitude of configurations for a variety of events, as well as a pair of hitting cages for baseball, softball and golf. Part of the forum also makes up 1,200 square feet of the fitness center with a complete cardiovascular area filled with treadmills, Stairmasters and a universal unit. The remaining 3,800 square feet of the fitness center is a room complete with weight training equipment from Hammer Strength.

The health and sport sciences department calls The Capital Center home with a complete sports medicine and athletic training center, sports science laboratory, classrooms and more than ample space for activity classes. The athletic department also has an office suite with a conference room and administrative work areas. Like many facilities, it is the small things that separate the adequate from the memorable. The Capital Center with its towers of brick and plaster, terrazzo flooring, hand-painted tile, skylights and enormous walls of glass not only pays homage to the tradition and architecture of the 177-year-old university, but also provides a functional and modern place for Capital to reach new horizons.

Capital’s vision has been simple – to have a center that is an integral part of university life, encompassing health and wellness activities, academic programs, intercollegiate athletics, intramural sports, social activities and community partnerships. The Capital Center embodies that vision and is a testament to the dedication, values and commitment to service of the entire CAP Family. To those past, present and future members of the CAP Family we only have one thing to say – Welcome Home.
Basketball games on campus are an experience, especially after Capital University opened the state-of-the-art Capital Center in the Fall of 2001. Capital has traditionally ranked among the leaders in home attendance in all of NCAA Division III.

The Capital Center arena features 2,100 seats, two hospitality suites, camera booth, press box and one of small college basketball’s best home court advantages. Aside from the arena, The Capital Center features locker rooms, a fitness center, classrooms and offices.

* - OAC Regular Season Game
Only one active college women’s basketball coach is in the Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame... Capital University’s Dixie Jeffers.

Entering her 26th season as a college basketball coach, Jeffers and her teams have been a model of excellence and consistency on and off the court. One of the nation’s all-time winningest coaches, she has won an astounding 80-percent of the games and is the sixth coach in NCAA Division III history with over 500 victories. Jeffers, who spent three seasons as the coach at Rio Grande University before coming to Capital, has a combined 518-139 career record. In honor of her career achievements, Jeffers was inducted into the Ohio Basketball Hall of Fame this past May.

With Jeffers at the helm, Capital University women’s basketball has become one of the nation’s best and most respected basketball programs. From 1990-2000, no NCAA Division III women’s basketball team had a higher winning percentage. Also during that span, Jeffers led Capital to the Final Four an incredible four times in five years. The Crusaders finished second in 1993, became the first Division III school to win back-to-back national championships in 1994 and 1995 and finished third in 1997.

With all this success, Jeffers had the distinction of being the first Division III coach to win National Coach of the Year honors in successive years (1994 and 1995).

Capital has won 20 or more games in 15 seasons and the Crusaders have twice crossed the 30-win plateau. Through Jeffers’ tenure, Capital has won the Ohio Athletic Conference regular-season title eight times. The Crusaders also have won the OAC postseason tournament seven times, including a run of six in a row from 1992-1997 with 10 NCAA Tournament appearances.

“Players constantly drive me to be successful and continue to achieve,” stated Jeffers. “I have and always will love the game and will continually have the energy to do the job.”

Anybody who comes in contact with Jeffers knows that energy is something the coach will never lack on or off the court. The energy Jeffers places in successful teams on the court is equally translated to her players’ academic pursuits. “The kids we recruit have to understand that academics are the highest priority,” says Jeffers. “They have to bring the enthusiasm to the classroom that they bring to the floor. That is a Capital student-athlete.”

As impressive as Jeffers’ numbers are on the bench, her off-the-court accomplishments are equally impressive. For 16-straight seasons a Crusader has been named Academic All-OAC and she has coached numerous Academic All-Americans, NCAA and NACDA post-graduate scholarship recipients. In 1997 Crusader Carrie Ferguson was honored nationally as an NCAA Elite VIII selection. Jeffers and her teams also have been active in the community by giving free basketball clinics, helping the homeless, visiting Children’s Hospital. Jeffers has also served on the board of directors for the Special Wish Foundation.

Ironically enough, Jeffers is from a small Ohio town called Mount Victory, and even if it appears she has climbed the coaching mountain, she wants to continue to ascend. “Once you have experienced a national championship, you never lose that hunger to do it again, for yourself, your current players, and the University,” stated Jeffers. “Other than getting married and having my children, it is one of the top experiences of my life, and I want my current players to have that experience for themselves.”

Aside from her coaching duties, Jeffers serves as associate athletic director. She and her husband John live in Canal Winchester with their daughter Cara and son Jansen.

The Capital University Sports Information Office is consistently updating records to provide the most accurate information possible. If you know of a record or letterwinner that should be changed or added, please contact CU Sports Information Director Bill Thomas at (614) 236-6174 or wthomas@capital.edu.
Capital University enters its 82nd season as a member of the Ohio Athletic Conference in 2008-2009. The OAC is the nation’s third-oldest collegiate athletic conference and from its beginnings in 1902 has never wavered in its focus on the entire development of the student-athlete. The conference’s unparalleled success of all of its members on and off the playing field has made the OAC one of the nation’s finest college conferences.

The OAC is predated only by the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (1888) and the Big Ten (1895). The OAC is older than the Rose Bowl, the World Series and even the NCAA itself and has survived two world wars, the Great Depression, the Korean War and the Vietnam Conflict. From a modest beginning of six charter members in 1902, the OAC grew to as many as 24 members in the mid-1920s. Through the years a total of 31 colleges and universities at one time or another have been members of the OAC. Currently, the conference consists of 10 members: Baldwin-Wallace College, Capital University, Heidelberg College, John Carroll University, Marietta College, Mount Union College, Muskingum College, Ohio Northern University, Otterbein College and Wilmington College.

Case Tech’s football team won the OAC’s first conference title with a 5-0-0 record. Outdoor track was added a year later and a third sport, cross country, became a conference sport in 1914. More sports were steadily added to the OAC’s repertoire throughout the years, culminating in the addition of women’s sports in 1984. The OAC currently sponsors championships in 21 sports, 11 men’s and 10 women’s. All 10 of the OAC institutions were founded in the 19th century and have long and outstanding academic reputations.

While maintaining these high academic standards, Ohio Athletic Conference athletic teams and athletes consistently have enjoyed a great deal of success on a regional and national level. The athletic competition is viewed not as an end in itself, but as an extension of the educational programs. Capital University has and continues to embrace the fine athletic and academic values that make the OAC one of the finest conferences in the nation.
