Women's 2011-2012 Season Preview

The Capital women's tennis team returns its top six players from last year’s squad and will add several newcomers to the team this year as the Crusaders look to climb the standings in the Ohio Athletic Conference. In the spring of 2011, first-year Coach Matt Waddell had seven players brand new to college tennis, including a hand full of freshmen. Capital ended its spring 2011 campaign with a 1-13 record, but did grab its first conference victory in more than two years, beating Muskingum in late April. Seniors Michelle Guy and Meredith Wedell return to lead this year’s team. Junior Colin Weaver, who started all season in both singles and doubles is back, as are sophomores Adrian Tolentino, Sara Ireland and Michelle Guy. McLaughlin played No. 1 singles and No. 2 doubles in her freshman year, while Hooks led the Crusaders in wins in 2011. MacFarland won the key come-from-behind match to help the team grab its OAC win over Muskingum. The returnees will be joined this season by freshman Corinne Hohenstein, Alyssa Trier and Rebecca Hunt, who should all make significant impacts in the singles and doubles lineups. The women’s team will have a fall season in the month of September, a spring break trip in late February and their main spring season in March and April 2012.

Men's 2011-2012 Season Preview

The Capital University men’s tennis team looks to move forward this season after finishing the 2011 campaign with a 4-16 dual record, including a 4-1 mark in the Ohio Athletic Conference. The Crusaders, who bow out in the first round of the OAC Tournament last spring, hope to fill the void at No. 1 singles left by All-OAC and CoSIDA Capital One Academic All-District honoree Casey Files, who graduated. Tommy Stein returns as the team’s lone senior and returning wins leader after recording six wins at No. 3 singles and a team-best five wins playing with Files at first doubles. Junior John Murray returns at No. 3 singles, while2classmate Doug Gugel-Bryant looks to start at singles again after playing at the No. 5 & 6 spots in 2011. Murray and Gugel-Bryant combined to post four wins at No. 2 doubles last season. Junior Chris Morris rounds out the returning starters for the Crusaders, playing primarily at the No. 4 singles and No. 3 doubles slot as a sophomore. Six freshmen will look to have an immediate impact in 2012 as Capital gears up to climb the OAC standings.
